WOMEN BUILD DALLAS

Dear Friend,

Every week, I meet families who are doing everything they can to build a better future-yet still struggling to find a safe, affordable place to call home. Housing shouldn't be the barrier that holds them back.

At Dallas Habitat, we know that safe, affordable homeownership is transformational for families and communities. That's why, since 1991, women across Dallas County have united through Dallas Habitat's Women Build to create stronger, safer communities. This movement brings together women across our community to build, advocate, and fundraise for safe and affordable housing in partnership with Dallas Area Habitat for Humanity.

Today, far too many women and children in our neighborhoods face barriers on their path to financial independence. Challenges like saving for a down payment, rising property taxes and insurance costs, and limited access to financial education often hit women—especially single mothers—the hardest.

But we know that with the right resources, education, and community support, homeownership is possible.

Each year, Dallas Area Habitat for Humanity serves thousands of families—more than half of them led by women. In fact, over 30% are single mothers striving to build a better future for their children.

That's why we're asking for your support. Our goal is to raise $350,000 to fund affordable home construction, financial education, and long-term support for the determined women we serve.

Join us, and help build a future where every woman has access to safe, affordable homeownership.

With gratitude,

Ashley Owen Brundage

2025 WOMEN BUILD FAMILY

The Harris Family

4844 BARTLETT AVE

Ms. Harris is a proud Dallas native who grew up in the vibrant community of Oak Cliff. A dedicated teacher by profession, she brings the same passion to her personal life—especially when it comes to her daughter, Jordyn. At 13, Jordyn is a creative soul who loves skating, playing the piano, and making digital art. Together, the two share a love for adventure and fun, often attending concerts, skating together, and exploring new places. Their bond is strong, and their shared hobbies bring a beautiful energy to their day-to-day lives.

For the past 14 years, Ms. Harris has been living in a multigenerational household in Dallas. While she cherishes the time spent with family, including frequent visits from relatives drawn to the presence of her grandmother, she looks forward to the peace and privacy that will come with owning her own home. A space to call her own will bring a new chapter for her and Jordyn—one filled with quiet moments, personal growth, and creative freedom. Jordyn is especially excited to decorate and make her new space truly her own.

Dallas Habitat has played a pivotal role in helping Ms. Harris achieve her dream of homeownership. After hearing glowing recommendations from other Habitat homeowners, she decided to take the leap. What began as a hopeful search for affordable housing quickly turned into a transformative experience. From her first contact with Monica Cunningham, who kept her informed every step of the way, to the surprising speed of the process once she chose her lot, Ms. Harris has felt supported and empowered. “The best part has been seeing the lot. It makes the home seem tangible,” she shared with a smile.

Now, as part of the 2025 Women Build Dallas Campaign, Ms. Harris feels honored to represent strength, resilience, and the power of community. She sees homeownership not just as a personal victory, but as a foundation for future generations. Being part of a neighborhood where people support and uplift each other means everything to her—and she’s thrilled that her daughter will grow up in such a space. Ms. Harris’s story is a shining example of what’s possible with hard work, hope, and a little help from those who believe in building dreams.
